

MediStaffCare by MediTelecare™

MediStaffCare expands our telehealth services to frontline healthcare workers and staff members, providing you with easy access to quality behavioral care when it's needed most.

In demanding and uncertain times, the emotional cost of caring for others is a known occupational hazard. When healthcare workers and staff members such as yourself are not provided access to the care they need, the unique stressors can lead to compassion fatigue and burnout.

At MediTelecare, we understand these stressors and are committed to your well-being. Our latest initiative, MediStaffCare, provides frontline healthcare workers and staff members with easy access to quality behavioral care.

During the unprecedented times of COVID-19, MediStaffCare provides you with behavioral care delivered in a discrete, private, and accessible manner via televideo. No one should be ashamed or embarrassed to seek help. The challenges associated with caring for your residents can only be helped if your own well-being is cared for. This service is 100% secure and remains part of doctor-patient privilege.

If you or a colleague are experiencing feelings of hopelessness, helplessness, vulnerability, fear, emotional distress, and/or burnout, you are not alone. Please reach out to our team and MediStaffCare can help provide the following:

- 📶 Access to care during the Coronavirus outbreak via our secure MediTelecareGo! digital hub technology
- 📶 General psychiatric services, mental health counseling, and clinical psychology services with qualified clinicians who have expert knowledge of the skilled nursing industry
- 📶 Avoidance of outpatient settings
- 📶 And more!
